

Acknowledgements

After an intensive period of four years working together, I would like to acknowledge with much appreciation the crucial role of my promoters, Pieter Jan and Erik Jan, and supervisor, Gert. I met Pieter and Erik when they were my teachers at the Master of Science in Strategic Product Design a long time ago. The former had the enormous challenge to teach Context and Conceptualization to some 150 students. He had the generosity to select my work among that pile of projects as an example of visual synthesis in several classes. Pieter Jan, thanks for your kind judgment; it encouraged me to work hard to improve my skills to communicate complex ideas in a visual manner. At that moment Erik headed the Product Innovation Management department and he had to interview me as one of the candidates during the selection process. He gently guided me along that call, encouraging me to reassure myself when necessary. Erik Jan, thanks for your generosity in selected me, and more importantly, later during the whole master when mentoring me. Although my contact with Gert is more recent, it is by no means less important. During the last four years, he has had the sharp eye to point out the most critical issues of my research and invited me several times to synthesize, to select the important and omit the irrelevant. Such an important lesson for a Latin American guy who tries to cover it all, thank you. A special gratitude I express to all three, for stimulating me to stay enthusiastic throughout this project. With their help, it has been a period of intense personal growth.

Furthermore, I would like to express my deepest appreciation to all those who provided me with the support to complete this inquiry.

Elvin Karana, who helped me with all the procedures related to this PhD at the faculty.

Laurent Willemsen, who patiently hammered this document until it became a clear and concrete story.

Natalia Mejia and Juan Torres, who crafted the layout of this document.

Froukje Sleeswijk Visser, Matthijs van Dijk, Christine De Lille, Elmer van Grondelle, and Lianne Simonse, essential experts who supported me during this research.

The company representatives, who were a key source of learnings: Gonzalo Gómez, Daniel Vergara, Carlos Gonzalez, Fernando Gonzalez, Wilson Ardila, Viviana Suarez, Luz Mora, Felipe Chavarro, Michel Rojas, Hugo Bautista, David Casas, Ties van Bruinessen, and Wim Verhoeff.

The great creative designers: Fabio Ariza, Alejandro Chitiva, Jette Bloemberg, Elisa Engelsma, Francesca Zuurhout, Eva Oosterlaken, Maite Gieskes, Jamie Ongkiehong, Joris Blok, Julie Kuiperi, Mercedes Leipoldt, Iris ten Brink, Bob Verheij, Alejandro Montoya, Daniel Sabaleta, the students of the Pontifical Xavierian University, Alice Smejkalova, Amelie Dinh, Carlotta Ludig, Ester Kaasa, Frida Støvern, Frida Drift, Frøya Thue, Karen Byskov, Palak Dudani, Paulina Buvinic, Renee Ranvig, Trygve Restan, Vilde Aasen, Xiaoyun Wang, and Yung Hsiao.

The wise experts: Nynke Tromp, Roald Hoope, Natalia Rodríguez, Emilio Jiménez, Jody Parra, Eefje Ernst, Natalia Agudelo, and Dirk Snelders.

Moreover, thanks to all colleagues from IDStudioLab: Holly, Abhigyan, Chen, Patrizia, Peter, Richard, Roy, Annemiek, Stella, Boudewijn, Mafalda, Tessa, Pieter, Mari-erose, Steven, Elisa, Mathieu, Lye, Bob, Eva, Paul, Aadjan, Marc, Tomasz, Ianus, David, Carlita, Jasper, Corrie, Marian, Maria, Elif, Anna, Natalia, Marco, Marieke, Rick, Sacha, and Haian.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my sponsor Colciencias, the Administrative Department of Science, Technology and Innovation of Colombia, and the manager of my scholarship, Colfuturo.